

HOPE TO TURN BACK DOUGLAS TEAM IN DUDLEY FIELD GAME

SNAKES HENRY, new manager of the El Paso Colts, and Jim Kernan, who almost took the helm of the club, will parade in Colt uniforms when the locals attempt to stop the Douglas Blues string of losses at Dudley field Saturday afternoon.

The battle may decide the permanent cellar championship of the Frontier league, and because both teams will be fighting with backs to the wall, the series is one of the most promising of the season.

In the last engagement El Paso made a clean sweep of the Blues, but the Douglasites were minus the services of Hal Chase, star first baseman and mainspring of the club. Without Chase, Douglas is worse off than a home without a mother and El Paso fans will see a rejuvenated lot of Blues trot out to meet the Colts Saturday afternoon.

The Arizona team has also strengthened the barriers in several other places and will be able to give the Colts a more even battle than on any previous series.

Colts Stronger.

Just what the Colts will be able to offer is still a crossword puzzle, but it is certain that they will send a stronger lineup against Douglas than the El Paso fans have boasted of this year. Kernan will probably work behind the bat and a new twirler, named Johnson, is ready for mound duty, with Knadley and Cowboy Lee in the offing. Henry will likely hold down the initial sack with Sid Cohen maneuvering in an outfield position.

Directors of the club are expecting a record attendance Saturday

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29 (AP).—America's greatest automobile drivers laid aside their tools today confident they are ready to defend the country's speed reputation against foreign invasion in the 500 mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway Saturday.

Aside from a final tinkering, the cars of drivers of national prominence are ready for the start at 10 a. m. Saturday morning. Pietro Bordino, Italian, and Antonio Mourre, Frenchman, upon whom rests Europe's chance for victory in the classic, also are prepared.

Bordino Carries Burden.

Upon Bordino rests most of the responsibility for he alone will drive a car made in the old country.

Three questions are uppermost in the minds of the drivers and fans alike. They are: Will the balloon tires used for the first time in an automobile race withstand the terrific punishment of the rough brick track? Will last year's record
