

Sid Cohen, Leaving Friday For Nat Training Camp, Believes He'll Stick

Sid Cohen, El Paso southpaw baseball chunker, will leave Friday night for Biloxi, Miss., training camp base for the Washington Senators, where he has been ordered to report, along with other candidates for pitching jobs on the Nat roster, for the opening of spring practice Feb. 24.

Cohen, who appeared on the mound for the Solons in two late season tilts last season, believes he has a good chance of sticking. "They saw what I could do in my two starts last year," Cohen said, "and I believe if it was thought my chances for gaining a berth weren't so good, I would have been farmed out by this time."

Sid's brother, Andy, ex-member of the New York Giants and present second sacker of the Minneapolis Millers, American Association entry, also is making preparations for his departure eastward for the pre-season training grind.

The Harry Mitchell Brewers, City basketball loop team coached by the younger Cohen, probably will play their last loop tilt with one of the players directing the club, Sid said. He was still bemoaning over the one-point loss of the Brewers

COURSING RACES SCHEDULED TODAY

Winners in the first round of the greyhound coursing events being staged by El Paso greyhound owners on the Newman Road, three miles beyond Restlawn Memorial Park, will be paired against each other this afternoon at 2 o'clock when second round events will be unreeled.

Nine races are scheduled to be run among dogs winning in their respective events two weeks ago while seven consolation events also are slated to be unreeled.

Several races loom as being closely contested affairs. Among those in the feature class is the race between Dr. Bull Connor and Barry Boy, R. E. Sherman and Paxton Dent, The Darb and Eagleton.

to the McNutt Oilers two weeks ago. "Had we won that game," Cohen stated. "our chances for the title would have been plenty bright. Those boys sure looked good in the last two games, didn't they?"
