MUSTANGS LOSE STAR

Sid Cohen of El Paso Quits SMU to Enter Alabama University.

DALLAS, Jan. 29. — (P)—Sid Cohen, former El Paso High school athlete, twice an all-state selection on basket ball and baseball teams, has announced that he will withdraw from Southern Methodist university to enter the University of Alabama. Cohen, who entered SMU last year, was considered one of the most promising athletes at the local university.

TO HONOR HEROISM

Every Member of "Lost Battalion" May Receive Medal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. — (P)—A congressional medal of honor for every member of the first battalion of the 38th infantry, 77th division, known as the "Lost Battalion," is asked in a bill introduced by Representative Maile, republican, Colorado.

The measure recited the exploit of the lost battalion in France, referring to it as an example of "endurance, supreme sacrifice and risk of life beyond the call of duty."

NOTED GUNMAN SLAIN

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29. — (P)—"Chaparreras," noted Mexican revolutionist who lived by the gun, died by the gun last night in Torreon, Mexico.

He was shot to death in that city, according to meager reports received here at the federal building.

"Chaparreras" was deported from San Antonio this month by immigration authorities. His true name was Demetrio Torres.

PAYS FOR FUNERAL

California Man Then Takes Poison in Oklahoma City Hotel.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29. — (P) E. R. Johnson, a real estate dealer of Beverly Hills, Calif., was found dead in his room at a hotel here today. Yesterday he sent a letter to Clarence Strong, local representative of an insurance company, containing money for his burial and directions as to the disposition of certain property.

Strong received the letter today and went to the hotel where the body was found. The letter gave his age as 42 and said he was survived by a widow and one child.

A physician said he had died from poison.

when Ziggy was considered a non-chalant sort of fellow. He can play baseball with the best of them; he can go to any part of the outfield to hook a fly ball, and he can rap the apple at the bat—when he wants to. Sport scribes were surprised when they learned that Ziggy was a cage official, but they tell us that he is one of the best in the southwest. Like Busfield and Kinney, he makes them play basketball instead of football when they are on the court. Basketball lovers appreciate this, even if the spirited students who had rather see a football game do not.

Sears and McCurdy are Texas leaguers, or rather McCurdy was, for he was sold by the Houston Buffs to the Chicago White Sox for a fancy price last season. He is a catcher and finished the Texas league season with a huge batting average. He received his athletic education at the University of Illinois.

Some coaches have criticised conference cage officials for being "too technical." Roger Busfield has been criticised for penalizing foot movement too much. Perhaps so, but Busfield is by far the best official we have seen here this season.

The Daily Texan, The Austin Statesman and The Austin American have editorialized on the poor sportsmanship shown by university students in "razzing" basketball officials on decisions. The students "razzed" Referee Kinney in the first game with Centenary. The next day the studes were "roasted" by the press. Evidently the studes didn't read the papers, for they were just as bad in the second game with Centenary.

Conference officials might take a tip from A. M. Venne in this razzing problem. The students "booed" him on a decision against Texas. He handed the ball to a player on the opposing side and commanded him to shoot at the goal from the foul line. It took three free shots to quiet the students, but when the points began to accumulate against Texas, Doc Stewart intervened in behalf of Referee Venne. The studes quit then.

Sid Cohen, former El Paso high school star, has withdrawn from SMU, a conference institution which somehow manages to attract quite a number of star athletes to Dallas. According to a Dallas paper, Cohen will enter the University of Alabama, where his brother, Andy, made a great record in basketball and baseball, and then came over to Texas again to star for the Waco team of the Texas league as a shortstop. Young Sid is said to be something of a flash in basketball and baseball himself. The Dallas scribe says that Sid Cohen was twice an all-state selection in basketball. He might have been, but
