

heavy stick work.

GOOD LONG ball hitters are few and far between and McCarthy is one of those hitters that can drive the ball out of the park on the same pitch that fooled him badly once or twice before in the same game.

Another hitter that is coming right along is Marz Dutra, Carmichael's popular left fielder. Dutra, who could have played professional baseball had he wanted to, has given up softball this year and the result has been terrific. He is hitting the ball like a major leaguer and has added power to his short blows to make him one of the league's most feared hitters.

Spencer Westlake, brother to Pittsburgh Pirate Wally, is home from the baseball wars. Spence, whose feet were injured while serving with the army in Europe, reinjured his feet while playing in the West Texas League and was forced to quit professional ball for the year.

BEFORE LEAVING Westlake witnessed one of the classic stunts pulled in the league this season. Syd Cohen, former pitcher for the Portland Beavers, and Charlie Metro, who third based for the Oakland Oaks, were rival managers in a contest. Metro, a long ball hitter, drove a pitch to left field that cleared the poorly lighted section of the fence with feet to spare, but he was robbed of a homerun when Cohen, playing left field for his team, saw the ball clear and at the same time ran up against the fence, made out he was playing the ball off the boards and pulled a ball out of his back pocket which he threw in to second base.

Metro, the umpires and even the fans were fooled by the ruse and Cohen, by his quick thinking robbed Metro of a home run that was rightfully his. Metro, thinking the returned ball was the one he hit, stopped at second and the game was played from that point.

The National Division of the Spring League will feature the Cannery Union versus Victory Window Cleaners' contest this morning at Stanford Park. Another tilt of importance will be Hadlers Wholesale versus I.X.L. Men's Store slated for Leiva Park at 11 A. M.
